That Linger After

Yesterday, just as we were going to press, a Denton (Texas) family piled up west of town on U. S. 87 and a college professor's wife was killed.

Before the ambulances had returned with the details it was most people's guess that the tourists had come to grief on the unpaved and slippery shoulders of our transcontinental death-trap—as have many before them, including home folks.

But a cow caused this accident, we were told—a cow loose on U. S. 87 in violation of the Hempstead county stock law. It's been a long time since The Star has had to write about livestock owners letting their animals run at large. Fifteen years ago it was a hot editorial topic.

But one accident carries more weight than a thousand newspaper opinions.

A Texas wife and mother is dead—killed while riding down our highway in the company of her husband, her four sons, and a daughter-in-law.

Howard county's great peach orchards came through last week's cold snap without damage. County Agent E. A. Hanson reports the temperature fell below freezing twice during the week, but the fruit buds escaped.

If the peaches get by April 20 they are safe, says the agent—and the chances are they will, which means a great deal to the Highland District where Mr. Peach is still king.

I don't know whether this is an editorial short-circuit or the unvarnished truth, but my old friend Edgar G. Harris gravely reports in his West Point (Miss.) Times Leader:

"Believe it or not, but the electric voting machine in the Mississippi House of Representatives broke down and refused to function when total appropriations reached $16,943,760."

It seems that the Mississippi legislature is now in session—and any time any state's legislature is meeting the unbelievable happens.

White Methodist and Baptist ministers of Uadilla, Ga., which is 20 miles south of Macon, are up in arms because anonymous and cowardly persons ruined Easter Sunday for the entire town. Two hundred members of the negro Camp Creek Baptist church were going to celebrate Easter Sunday with a special service honoring 87-year-old Rev. George Taylor, their pastor for 36 years—and the white Methodist and Baptist ministers had been invited and had accepted. But when the white folks got there they found the Easter service had been called off. Both the whites and the negroes had gotten telephone warnings; and the celebration was abandoned because, as one old negro told the white folks, "We is afraid."

You will recall that during the soft coal strike I reported the coal industry was facing a situation desperate for both the miners and the mine owners, and the nation would have to be on guard against an attempt to unload this white-copulant business on the taxpayers.

Well, we are coming to that now. Not that anyone is proposing to nationalize the mines the way Great Britain has. It's a slicker scheme than that.

What's proposed is that the government step in and fix prices. A bill is coming up with that proposition. The industry is beginning to cut prices because, even in these few weeks since the mines have resumed digging, production is outrunning the demand. You can look for the mine owners and John L. Lewis to agree that this ought to be done. Which makes it unanimous—except for all the rest of the United States.

How long are we doing to let the U. S. Treasury keep on propping up businesses and industries that time has passed by? The politics of it smells, and so will the propped-up subject, sooner or later.

Despite Economy Problems U. S. Still 'Booming'

Washington, April 11 — (P) — Americans appear somewhat bothered by economic prospects but nevertheless bent on boom-level buying—something that should help business stay good.

The federal reserve board supplied this estimate. Furthermore, it said people have less hope of general price cuts this year than last, although more than half figure that prices of cars and major household items will come down.

A board survey of consumer buying plans pointed to continued record sales of homes and autos this year, more than doubled sales of television sets, and a strong market for furniture, refrigerators, etc.

As to housing, it found more than a million persons "definitely" plan to buy new homes this year, but a growing number are determined to pay less than $10,000. About as many more intend to buy in 1951.

On the auto front, there was "preliminary evidence that middle and low income consumers comprise a larger part of the prospective demand in 1950."

Since this referred to prospective buyers of new rather than used cars, it suggested that the auto industry's best sellers are likely to be the less costly models.

McMath Says He Will Not Dictate to State Voters

Little Rock, April 11 — (P) — Governor McMath said today he would not dictate whom state employees should support in the approaching gubernatorial campaign.

As long as a state employee does a day's work "his politics outside the office is his business," McMath declared at a news conference.

"Naturally, I'd like to believe they would support my administration," he added.

Many of the 6,000 state employees were hired under former Governor Ben Laney's administration. Some of these workers have been elevated to supervisory posts under McMath.

McMath and Laney will square off against each other in this summer's Democratic primaries.

U. S. Seeks to Deport Bridges; Probers Told Communists Were Brains of Longshore Union

San Francisco, April 11 — (P) — The federal government moved today for immediate revocation of Harry Bridges' citizenship.

Such action, if successful, would open the way for a federal hearing to deport to Australia and CIO longshore boss, convicted of perjury himself at his 1945 naturalization hearing by denying he ever was a Communist.

For that conviction, Bridges was sentenced yesterday to five years imprisonment. Two labor union aides were given two years for their testimony in his behalf at the citizenship hearing.

The government move to ask revocation of citizenship, scheduled for court hearing today was based on the contention that the state governing Bridges' undid it.

The man to decide that is the trial judge, George B. Harris, who said as he passed sentence:

"By lying, cheating and defrauding the United States government, Mr. Harry Bridges was granted a certificate of naturalization. He was aided and abetted by two co-defendants x x and had bestowed upon him the priceless benefit of citizenship."

Bridges, 48, key figure in paralyzing port strikes on the West Coast and Hawaii and twice victor against previous government efforts to deport him, listened in silence to the proceedings.

His attorneys, both of whom were sentenced for contempt during the trial, said they would oppose any move to revoke Bridges' citizenship. They also said they would carry appeals to the Supreme court, if necessary, contending that the trial was conducted on a "political" and even a "patriotic" basis.

Car Victim's Body Returned to Denton

The body of Mrs. Stella Mae Whittle, 44, of Denton, Texas, who was killed yesterday afternoon when the car in which she and her family were returning from a visit in Birmingham, Ala., overturned on Highway 67 west of Hope, was returned to Denton by rail at 11 o'clock last night, the Herndon-Cornelius Funeral home reported.

In the car with her were her husband, Richard T. Whittle, professor at North Texas State College, Denton, and their four sons and a daughter-in-law, all of whom escaped with minor injuries when the machine wrecked while attempting to dodge a cow on the highway near Sheppard.

The others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Whittle of Dallas; and Joe M., Carl S., and Fred R. Whittle, all of Denton.

Mrs. Whittle is survived also by a sister, Mrs. Birdie Lollar, of Birmingham, Ala..

Honolulu, April 11 — (P) — An avowed former Communist says Communist party members were the brains of Harry Bridges' CIO longshore union in Hawaii.

The house un-American activities committee heard this testimony yesterday from Ichiro Izuka, who said he was a member of the party for 10 years until he quit in October, 1946.

The congressional group is investigating alleged Communist activity in this island territory which hopes for statehood soon. The house has approved by the senate has yet to act.

Izuka named Jack Hall, regional director of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, as a dues-paying member of the Communist party through June, 1946. He said he himself collected dues from Hall, Bridges' lieutenant in Hawaii.

In compliance with the Taft-Hartley act, Hall signed a non-Communist affidavit last Feb. 27.

After asserting he knew that Communists formulated ILWU policy in 1946, Izuka said:

"And even today they are in the saddle. They are dictating the ILWU policies."

Izuka, who said he was treasurer of the party's Wakiki cell, estimated there were about 130 party members in Hawaii in 1946. Of these, 90 per cent were ILWU members, he testified.

Dust Storms Strike Again in Wheatlands

By The Associated Press

The third big dust storm of the year swept wide sections of the nation's wheatlands in mid-America yesterday.

And with the blow came fears that strong April winds may whip up more trouble for farmers already harassed by long, dry spells.

Kansas and Oklahoma, two of the nation's top wheat producing states, took the brunt of yesterday's winds. But strong gusts also kicked up valuable top soil in the Texas panhandle, eastern Colorado and New Mexico both Sunday and yesterday.

The winds were not considered quite as strong as a heavy blow two weeks ago.

An agronomist at the Ft. Hays, Kas., agricultural experiment station pointed out, however, that in the previous dust storms this year only small areas were blowing, but yesterday's winds eroded larger spots.

A prolonged dry spell has loosened the soil.

"This could lead to most severe damage," said Agronomist A. F. Swanson, "the wind also is beginning to work the soil into a fine powder. And when this happens we will really have a problem."

The dust was so thick yesterday in parts of Kansas that visibility for a time was zero. The highway patrol closed one U. S. highway west of Saline because of the dust hazard.

Radio Program Solves a Big Gap in Keeping the Blind Up to Date on Periodicals

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(For Hal Boyle)

New York — Between Braille record players and radios, a lot has been done to keep the blind informed and up to date—but there was one big gap unfilled.

That was the reasoning of young David Margolis, a young Brooklyn lawyer who abandoned the bar to do what he could to help the blind. So Margolis, who lost his own sight during an illness 12 years ago, dreamed up a radio program.

Then he took the harness of his gentle shepherd dog Cindy, came to Manhattan and sold his idea on the spot. A couple of weeks later the premiere of the show on a New York independent station jammed the switchboard with enthusiastic telephone calls.

It's called "The Talking Magazine," a weekly half-hour digest of current periodical articles and a report on matters usually overlooked by news broadcasters and commentators but still of interest.

"Radio has been a wonderful thing for the blind," Margolis says, "because it's given us news, some interpretation and a sense that we can keep up with what's going on without having someone read to us. There are Braille and talking books—not enough, but some. We can hear radio music and plays. But there's no way we can keep up with what's going into the magazines unless some person reads it to us."

Margolis brought his brain child to Station WNEW. Ted Cott, production executive, added a few showman's flourishes. His main contributions were a decision to en-

Labor Leader Starts Freedom to Work Drive

Little Rock, April 11 — (P) — A Little Rock labor leader today began a statewide speaking tour in behalf of an effort to repeal the "freedom to work" amendment to the Arkansas constitution.

He is James A. Griffey, Little Rock alderman and executive secretary of the political education committee of the Little Rock local of the International Typographical union.

The labor-opposed "freedom to work" amendment prohibits making union membership or non-membership a condition of employment. The Little Rock ITU local was announced it would seek to initiate a proposed amendment to repeal it.

If sufficient signatures are obtained, the proposed repealer will go on the November general election ballot. Griffey on his tour, beginning tonight at Malvern, will speak in behalf of the proposal and distribute petitions for its initiation.

Demo Battle on Probe Is Sidetracked

Washington, April 11 — (P) — Party trouble-shooters were reported today to have sidetracked an open Democratic fight over proposed senate investigations of crime and gambling.

There has been a reluctant agreement among the Democrats to merge the crime inquiries backed by the senate judiciary committee and the senate commerce committee, one senator reported.

A final decision rested with the Democratic senate policy group which scheduled the matter for discussion.

Before the policy group met, a senate commerce subcommittee called in department of justice officials to discuss a bill to ban interstate transmission of gambling information.

New Drug Is Helpful for Stomach Ulcers

Philadelphia, April 11 — (P) — A chemical compound with a jaw-breaking name was reported today to have opened up a new approach to the treatment of stomach ulcers.

The drug, which can be taken by mouth and makes a double-barreled attack on ulcers, still is in the experimental stage, John W. Cusic and Richard A. Robinson said in a paper prepared for delivery before the American Chemical society meeting here.

The two researchers represent the firm of G. D. Searle & Co., Chicago.

The drug has not been named, but is chemically identified as beta-dichloromethoxy-L-1 is a 9-carboxylate methoxyamide. It is being released to a medical profession only for use in carefully controlled clinical tests.

Just Broadway stars as the "readers" and to put the show on tape—transcribe it for broadcast later—after using the stars in their leisure time.

"My idea was that theatrical names would make the show more attractive," Cott said, "and besides, theater people are trained readers, so we killed two birds with one stone."

He made telephone calls to theater great up and down Broadway and got 100 per cent cooperation. The show started out late in March with Patricia Morison of "Kiss Me, Kate," and "Death of a Salesman," Mildred Dunnock, heading a star cast of readers. The next week it was Frederic March and other big names.

John Grogan, a WNEW producer, and Margolis do most of the editorial work—selection of material and supervision of the delicate job of shaving a 2,500-word treatise down to a maximum of 600 words.

In the first few weeks, thousands of blind—and sighted—listeners were treated to a wide variety of subjects about everything goes into the act—fashion notes, humor, oddities in the news and just plain interesting feature.

Margolis, associated with the Industrial Home for the Blind of Brooklyn, says the response has been greater than he expected.

"After the first broadcast we had about 150 telephone calls about it here at the home," he said, "and lots more at the station. Blind people don't write letters very often—but we get a lot of fan mail from sighted people who also enjoy the program."

Thailand to Get Military Aid From America

Bangkok, April 11 — (P) — The United States has granted $10,000,000 worth of arms and other military aid to a Thailand threatened by communism, Premier Pibul Soggram disclosed today.

This was the first concrete manifestation of decisions reached at the Bangkok conference in February.

Philip C. Jessup, U. S. ambassador-at-large, set forth the U. S. position there of giving military assistance to Asian nations displaying the will to stand against the Communist tide.

Under Songgram's leadership, the tiny kingdom of Thailand has taken its place alongside Democratic powers in the cold war against communism.

But the war is more hot than cold in southeast Asia, which lies athwart the mighty new Communist nation of China and itself is riddled with Reds.

The premier successfully fought for recognition of Bao Dai's French supported regime in Indochina. The Western powers have lined up for Bao Dai while the Communist bloc supports the opposing regime of Ho Chi-minh.

Big Strikes Again U. S. Threat

Washington, April 11 — (P) — Threatened strikes in the maritime, railroad and telephone industries marred the nation's relatively quiet labor relations scene today.

Walkouts may develop in all three industries within the next several weeks.

In addition, 3,500 mechanics and flight attendants of Pan-American Airways, a principal American overseas carrier, have authorized a strike but set no date as yet.

Capt. Charles F. May, general president of the AF's Masters, Mates and Pilots union, told reporters yesterday his union plans a strike at midnight Saturday of about 4,000 Atlantic and Gulf ship deck officers.

May said this will stop about 90 per cent of Atlantic-Gulf ship tonnage.

Declaring angrily that the union was despairing of a new contract after four times postponing strike dates, May added:

"They're forcing us out. We just can't get anywhere."

His union, May said, has abandoned demands for a wage increase and now will settle for a union shop and seniority guarantees, similar to those granted to his union last fall by West Coast ship-owners.

In New York, a spokesman for officials said federal mediation efforts were trying to get union representatives to meet again with the operators.

Strikes have been authorized by the brotherhoods of locomotive engineers and firemen-engineers. A walkout by either or both of these unions, representing several hundred thousand operating workers, could bring the nation's rail transportation system to a standstill.

Charges U. S. Plane Fires on Russian Fighter

London, April 11 — (P) — Russia charged today that a U. S. military plane opened fire three days ago on a flight of Soviet fighters over Latvia, and said one of five Soviet planes fired back.

A Soviet protest, lodged with the U. S. embassy in Moscow, identified the plane as a B-29 bomber, but U. S. air force headquarters at Weisbaden, Germany, said the plane in question may have been a missing navy aircraft sought since Saturday in the northern Baltic. Air force officials said this plane, a navy version of the B-29 bomber, was not armed.

Washington, April 11 — (P) — The air force said today it has "no official knowledge" of any American bomber exchanging fire with Soviet fighter planes.

That was its only immediate comment on a Soviet report that a B-29 opened fire on the Soviet planes over Russian territory along the Baltic sea last Saturday.

The report from the Russian news agency, Tass, said one of the Russian planes had fired back at the American ship.

The air base in England. They include a B-50 bomb group, made up of about 40 planes, a B-29 tank-reueling squadron, and units of weather and rescue B-29's.

VFW Auxiliary Installs Officers

The Auxiliary to the Ramsey Cargile Post No. 4511 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars held their installation of officers Friday, April 7 at the hut. There were 33 members and two guests, Mrs. C. E. Pringle of Hot Springs and Mrs. Ruth Muldoon, of Hot Springs, present for the meeting. They enjoyed a dinner preceding the installation of officers.

The U-shaped table was covered with a white cloth, centered with an arrangement of irises, jonquils, and spirea, with ivy extending the length of the table. At each end of the U-shaped table were nests of Easter eggs.

Mrs. T. B. Fenwick, Sr. chaplain gave the invocation and Mrs. Hinton Davis introduced the two honor guests. A three course dinner was served by the Hope well demonstration club members.

Following the dinner, Mrs. Davis called the meeting to order and presented Mrs. Pringle, a past president of the State Dept. and present president of District 8. Mrs. Pringle installed the following officers in an impressive ceremony: President, Mrs. John Keck; Sr. Vice pres., Mrs. Denver Hornaday; Jr. vice pres., Mrs. Jeff Millican; treasurer, Mrs. W. T. Woodul; conductress, Mrs. Orville Taylor; Chaplain, Mrs. T. B. The luncheon was served buffet style from the table centered with a low bowl arrangement of white iris with a miniature bride and groom made from a pink and green Easter egg, dressed with tulle and carrying out the bridal motif.

Paul Holdridge, pastor of the church, officiating. Miss Davis is the daughter of Mrs. Lillie Davis and the late Mr. Davis of McCaskill. Mr. Embry is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Embry of Sweetwater.

The church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli against a background of English ivy. Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. S. Joseph Goss, organist, and Miss Maxine and Velma Tabor, soloists who sang "Indian Love Call" and "The Wedding Prayer".

Miss Maxine Tabor sang "Alone ways". For the closing prayer, the couple knelt on a white kneeling bench while Misses Tabor sang "Saviour Like A Shepherd Lead Us".

The bride who entered alone wore a dusty rose crepe dress with small beige hat and matching flowers with a shoulder length illusion veil. She carried a White Bible topped with white carnations, with a shower of stephanotis.

Mrs. Jean Taylor, sister of the bride, chose a navy crepe dress with navy accessories and her flowers were white carnations. Jean Taylor served the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Louis Sutton, Jr. and John Embry, Jr.

5,000 Chinese Guerillas Surrender

Taipei, April 11 — (AP) — Five thousand Communist guerrillas, their morale shattered by propaganda and cut supply lines, surrendered during the past week on Hainan. Chinese Nationalist dispatches said today.

The Nationalist high command on the hard-pressed south China island said about 2,000 guerrillas laid down their arms in six villages on southern Hainan. The others surrendered in scattered areas.

The Nationalists threw a three-pronged drive at the estimated 25,000 to 30,000 guerrillas on Hainan. They bombarded them with air-dropped leaflets promising life and re-education.

They stepped up the military drive. They blasted six Chinese Communist attempts during the past month to pour men and supplies across Hainan beaches from Luchow peninsula 10 miles away.

For the week ended Sunday, the high command reported: Nationalist warships sank more than 40 Red junks, killing more than 2,000 Reds and capturing more than 100.

Nationalist planes sank or damaged 250 junks, killing more than 1,000 Reds.

"Hainan has become an unsinkable carrier," boasted Gen. Huang Han-ying, a high staff officer who arrived from Hainan.

U. S. Against British Dollar Crisis Review

Washington, April 11 — (AP) — The United States has ruled against any detailed review of Britain's dollar crisis when the Big Three foreign ministers meet in London next month.

Informed government officials said today that Secretary Acheson has notified the British he considers any such talks to be "inappropriate" at that time.

Acheson is reported ready, however, to talk about Britain's financial outlook in general terms, as it affects the numerous political issues to be discussed.

The secretary is tentatively scheduled to leave for Europe by plane May 7. He plans to spend two days in Paris meeting with French Foreign Minister Schuman and then go on to London.

British Foreign Minister Bevin suggested expanding the discussions recently to include a new look at Britain's dollar problem. American officials said Acheson opposed such a move for these reasons:

1. His stay in London would be too short to do a thorough job of examining the complicated British financial and trade picture.

2. A review would mean bringing over at least a score of government officials from the various agencies which must be consulted before decisions could be made.

3. Britain and the United States could make little progress on the problem without Canadian participation since Canada's economy is directly involved.

DOROTHY DIX Silent Girl

Dear Miss Dix: I have been going steady with a young man and we get along very well together, except for one thing which I am afraid will break up our friendship, which I value very highly, and that is my lack of conversation. I talk very little. I am intelligent, well educated and a great reader, but I enjoy listening in preference to talking. This silence on my part is a bone of contention between us. He feels that I am too introspective and that I am not only do not talk enough, but that I am so shut up in myself that I drive people away from me. Is reticence on a person's part an asset or a liability, or just unnatural?

Answer: It is all three according to the way you look at it. Certainly the woman who talks little is kept from saying many foolish things, and if she never discussed her private affairs she saves herself from much bitter repentance, and so far reticence is an asset.

Listeners Rare

There is a lot to be said in favor of lending your ears instead of giving your tongue. Good listeners are such a rarity in a world filled with monologists that it appears to me your boy friend does not appreciate the blessing he has in you. Personally, I can think of nothing so delightful as having a companion who would let me do all the talking without even desiring to retaliate.

However, the truth is that most men are conversationally lazy. They don't want to have to make any effort to entertain a woman. They don't want to have to bother to think up subjects to talk about. And so they pick out a girl who can babble on, like the brook, forever and forever.

And men like chatterbox wives. They like a wife who is overflowing with the news of the house and ethical conduct in obtaining a divorce for a New York couple is denied by Hot Springs attorney Morris Hecht.

Attorney Denies Anything Wrong With Divorce

The Arkansas Supreme court yesterday called the divorce of Mr. and Mrs. Eli E. Oberstein "a contemptible fraud. It directed the bar rules committee to investigate the conduct of Hecht, and said it would call attention of New York courts to the conduct of W. R. Berkson, New York City attorney.

The court said Mrs. Oberstein spent only one day in Hot Springs but that the Garland county Chancery court was told she complied with the 90-day residence requirement of the state divorce law.

Commenting on the Supreme court opinion, Hecht said he was ill during most of 1947, when the original divorce action occurred.

agencies which must be consulted before decisions could be made.

the neighborhood and who can't go to the corner grocery without picking up a funny little story. Stevenson rated being a good gossip as the most important quality a wife could have, and he wasn't far wrong.

And certainly we must all admit that reticence is a cloak of ice about an individual that chills an friendly impulse we may have toward her. We never seem to get close to such a one. We never feel really acquainted with her because we never know what she is thinking or feeling, or anything about her private affairs.

So I think learning to talk is a necessary accomplishment for women, and no line they can carry is as good a line as one of innocuous chatter.

Dear Miss Dix: Five years ago I married the girl of my dreams and until some six months ago she continued to be just that in my ideals and affections. Then she admitted to me that she liked another man very much and had had several dates with him. She says she feels no love whatever for him, just a desire to be dated by another man occasionally. We have three fine children and she has been a wonderful mother and does not neglect the children, our home or me. I have done everything possible to make my wife happy and we live comfortably, but I have known for years that I have not been her ideal but her necessity, and it is bitter knowledge. What shall I do? Shall I let my wife go out with other men or what?

Answer: I should think the best remedy for the situation would be to employ only old and homely maids. That probably wouldn't stop him from kissing pretty girls, but it would prevent your having to change servants so often.

AN UNHAPPY HUSBAND

Answer: Men are possessive by nature and it is easy to understand how a man who is as devoted to his wife as you are would find it a heart-breaking experience to discover that he was not all in all to her, as she is to him. But, your wife is as she is made and you have to take her on that platform.

Perhaps she married too young, before she had ceased to thrill at the thought that she was attractive to men. Perhaps she is one of the women who can never love one man very deeply, but who will always crave the admiration of many men. Perhaps she is actuated by a little of all of those motives. However that may be, there she is, bored with you, bored with her children and her home, wanting to have a little fling, and what are you going to do about it?

I think you had best make a virtue of necessity and make the grand gesture of giving her free permission to have dates with other men. Thereby you will also do much to rob the situation of its glamour. She won't find half the kick in an affair that is chaperoned by husband, so to speak, as she would in one where she was deceiving husband, and outwitting him and expecting every moment to be discovered.

Your main object in life is to keep your home together and give your children a mother's care, so deal diplomatically with your wife. And don't let the present situation make you too unhappy. The chances are that she will love you all the better for comparing you with the men she goes out with, and come home to you after her little outing, satisfied to stay in the domestic fold.

Dear Miss Dix: Every time I get a pretty maid I catch my husband kissing her. What can I do to stop it?

G. L. M.

Widmar Wants
$10,000 From
St. Louis Browns

Seranton, Pa., April 11 —(AP)— Al Widmar wants $10,000 from the St. Louis Browns to pitch baseball in 1950.

If he doesn't get it, the 25-year-old right-hander said at his home in nearby Dunmore yesterday
"I'll sue baseball in the courts the way Danny Gardella did."

Gardella brought a $300,000 damage suit against organized baseball after he was banned from playing in this country for jumping to the Mexican league.

Widmar said the Browns are "preventing me from earning a decent living in baseball." The big pitcher quit the Browns recently and came to his Dunmore home to sit out his bid for a higher salary.

He contends he was paid $8,000 last year with Baltimore of the International league, where he won 21 games.

Fair Enough

An item has appeared in the Tucson Citizen, possibly part of an organized scheme to inflict again on the public the lecherous and un-American personality of Charlie Chaplin.

Early in March, the Associated Press reported from Hollywood:
"The town has been buzzing with reports that Charlie Chaplin is spending half-a-million dollars to improve his relations with the public. Now there appears a reason for the move. Television. There have been indications that the famed comic would like to follow the success of Hopalong Cassidy and relapse his old films. Video, thus creating a new and widespread audience."

Unwary editors, comic artists, columnists, radio producers and the public are put on warning.
The February number of the Atlantic Monthly carries on its front cover a "comic" drawing of Chaplin, in his make-up, running from three brutal American cops of the pot-bellied version. This signed by Al Capp, a strip artist of elusive humor. His strip is called "Little Abner."

Below the drawing of Chaplin and the cops is the title of the leading article in the February Atlantic entitled "The comedy of Charlie Chaplin, by Al Capp."

In the text, Capp modestly pleads guilty of humorous genius.
Thus qualified, he sets forth a rueful analysis of Chaplin's dangerous position of a puppet of a detestable alien guttersnipe who had four wives, three of them just kids, and in his nasty senility seduced another young American girl, got her pregnant and had her run out of town, practically penniless. The Atlantic Monthly's satiric old character has been modified by strong but undeclared political inclinations.

About the time of this issue a radio and television program entitled "Who Said That?" was put on the air.

He said great bitterness. Charlie

He doesn't read anything. He thought communism was smart. I fought him for years. I said:
"Charlie, you are rich. The individual poor man can die on your doorstep and you would kick him off."

more than take the spray between her fingers.
"This is very touching, Piers—
but I would rather you didn't offer Miss Norton orange blossoms quite so soon. She has a two-year contract to fulfill!"

CLEMENCY turned with a start, scarlet with annoyed embarrassment, to find Syrie Amberley standing in the open doorway behind her; and then as her eyes met she saw that the other girl's were curiously hard. "Miss Norton is apparently not very keen on orange blossoms," said Piers.
"Clemency, the questionable taste of Syrie's remark."

Clemency felt a swift gratitude for the cool way in which he accepted the situation, and was furious to find herself blushing like a schoolgirl caught in some for-bidden prank.

"I think," she looked at Syrie, that Colonel Amberley has a right to be proud of his orange grove."

"Oh—he is. He never misses an opportunity of showing it off."
There was still something that made for discomfort in Syrie's half-smile. "I wondered where Baba had got to," she added. "It is better for her not to be out too long in this sunshine. The nursery courtyard is nice and shady. But of course you will have to get used to the vagaries of this odd climate."

"What a lot of nonsense, Syrie!"
exclaimed Piers. "It is early yet.
Surely the child will have to spend quite enough time indoors when the weather breaks."

Without answering, Syrie glanced at her watch. "Will you take her in now, Miss Norton? I'll join you presently—I want to have a talk with you."

"Certainly, Mrs. Amberley.
Come along, darling." Clemency took the little girl's hand, and to her relief Baba trotted away with her, without making any protest.
It had all been surface sweet, but Clemency was far from dense, and she realized that the dismissal to her own quarters was a subtly administered snub. If she failed to take the hint in the future, Mrs. Amberley was capable of making her displeasure felt in no uncertain manner.
